ABUSE CAMPAIGN THUNDER OF THE KEYSTONE BUNCH

Gibboney Talks of Philadelphia; Berry of Himself

LUCKLESS STENOGRAPHER

Spleen of Second on Ticket Vented on Ragsdale on Every Occasion

D. Clarence Gibboney, candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Keystone ticket, is making rather a mess out of it in his campaign. For campaign thunder Gibboney, who is the "big boss" of the Keystone outfit, and calmly commands Berry and the rest into respectful obedience, uses woeful tales of alleged terrible conditions existing in Philadelphia, and knocks the stenographer sent out by the Republican State Campaign committee to cover Berry and Gibboney's talks. The conditions in Philadelphia he says are due to the instrumentality of one Penrose who, to hear Gibboney tell it, is the biggest villian this side of Hades. He also accuses Penrose of sending out the stenographer, which of course is a terribly naughty thing to do.

Gibboney in his talks always tells about what he has accomplished in the city of Brotherly Love toward the undoing of immoral trade conducted by Penrose's lieutenants, but according to his own admission the affairs there seem to be about as bad as before he entered upon his self assumed duties of moral purification.

The luckless Ragsdale, the stenographer, is treated sarcastically and with utter contempt by Gibboney in his talks, although it seems the latter should feel complimented that the Republican party considers it worth while paying a man full day wages and traveling expenses to listen to his vituperative abuse. Ragsdale is a good fellow to meet, and one who evidentally knows his business. By his own admission he is a friend of Gibboney's, although why he should feel called upon to make such an explanation in the face of the candidate's scathing denunciation of him and his business is a question He is furnished routings by the Keystone campaign committee, but it keeps him thoroughly on the job at all times to stay with the party because of reckless breaking of dates and substitutions. Ragsdale nearly always manages to get a front seat at the Gibboney-Berry meetings, and then calmly and smilingly takes notes while he is being denounced from the word go.

Of the candidates Berry and Gibboney, the former is probably the most refined. He spends the time telling about himself and doesn't lower himself by the use of maledictive expletives and language, but in office would undoubtedly allow himself to be guided and influenced by his more agressive associate and the Commonwealth would suffer.

Has Leg Broken By Rolling Log

North Charleroi Man Disabled Yesterday While at Work

While cuting posts between the second and third street car bridges, near North Charleroi yesterday afternoon, Robert Valentine a well known colored man, was disabled by having a log roll over him. The large bone of the lower left leg was broken in two places. The man was removed to the home of John Stewart in North Charleroi and Dr. N. W. Patton called.

WILL GIVE COMPLETE STATEMENT

Congressman Tener Promises to Meet All Charges

BIG MEETINGS ARE HELD

Congressman J. K. Tener and his party visited McKean, Cameron and Potter counties yesterday, and were met with most enthusiastic receptions. Every indication points to those counties giving the usual Republican majorities. At Coudersport Mr. Tener again replied to the slanderous charges made against his character by the Philadelphia North American, and emphatically declared that he would meet all charges. He said:

"Certain accusations have been made against me recently in one or more of the daily newspapers, and while I do not propose at this time to enter into any explanation or make any finished statement of the matter I do want to say that my connection with that company was only to the extent of receiving two months' salary and that should measure the time of my official connection with it.

"I also want to say and I want you to believe me, because it is the truth, that I never received one dollar's worth of stock or one share of stock in that company. I further ask you to suspend judgement on that proposition until a full statement is made, which will be forthcoming within the next day or two and that statement will be the plain and unvarnished truth."

CASE SCHEDULED FOR HEARING THIS MONTH

Indiana County Sensation, in Which Former North Charleroi Girl Is Concerned, Attracting Attention

The trial of Bamford E. Burkhart at Indiana in the Indiana county courts, charged with illegal actions terminating in conditions that caused the death of Bertha Critzer formerly of North Charleroi, will come up this months it is understood. Yesterday a detective from Indiana was at North Charleroi and it is stated he summoned witnesses in the case from that place.

The death of the girl caused quite a sensation. She died on Saturday, July 30, from blood poisoning, which physicians claim had resulted from attempts to offset the effects of a serious crime. The Critzer girl was formerly employed as a domestic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Sayre in North Charleroi and was well known in this place.

GIRL ABSENT FOR MONTH RETURNED TO HER HOME

Located By Monessen Constable After She Had Been Here, It Is Claimed, for Some Time

After being gone for a month without her father having heard a word from her, Catherine Kergo has been found and returned to her parents in Mt. Pleasant. The girl was found by Constable C. A. Kepple of Monessen, after some shadowing work in Charleroi, where the girl had lived, it is said, for a while. She was identified by means of a photograph and a description forwarded to the Mt. Pleasant police.

The Kergo girl is about 18 years old, and according to the father incorrigible. The mother is in the old country, and while he was at work he claims that the daughter fell into dissolute habits and he was unable to control her.

After she disappeaed about a month ago, he learned through a son-in-law of Connellsville that she was in the neighborhood of Monessen, it is said, and a warrant was sent to Constable Kreple, together with a picture and description of the girl. The officer then ascertained that she was supposed to be living in Charleroi with a man by the name of Albert Kray. Kreppie sent word to Connellsville and the son-in-law came from that place and together they came to Charleroi. After a somewhat extended search, it is said, Constable Kepple succeeded in locating the girl and arrested both her and the man. They were taken to Monessen but the man was released. The girl declared she would not go back to live with her father, but was finally persuaded to accompay her brother-in-law and was taken to Mt. Pleasant.

It is claimed that the girl had spent some time in the valley, and had been in trouble with the Brownsville and the Uniontown police.

State Treasurer Wright Will Hold Job Full Term

Governor Stuart's Appointee Will Continue in Office Until 1913

CHANGE IN THE BALLOT

Charles F. Wright, State Treasuer, appointed by Governor Edwin S Stuart in April to fill the vcancy caused by the death of Treaurer J. A. Stober, will hold his office until May 1913, according to a ruling of the Supreme Court yesterday. All political parties had nominated candidates for the position this year under the supposition that Wright's term would expire next year.

George E. Etter filed a writ of quo warranto in Dauphin County to prevent the placing of candidates names on the ballots and a demurrer was filed to the petition by Attorney General M. Hampton Todd. The Superior Court sustained the demurrer and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court rule that as the date for the election of State Treasurer comes next in 1912 there is no warrant for holding an election for the office before that.

Because of this decision no State Treasurer will be elected this fall although the candidates nominated by the various parties have been busy campaigning. Charles F. Wright who was the Republican candidate has been with the Tener party since it started out. This action of the court takes him off the ticket, but that will not affect the campaign.

C. F. WRIGHT.

State Treasurer Whose Term Is Continued

Divorced; Still Tied

Fayette City Woman Loses One Husband But Has Another

Mrs. Rosie Baran, of Fayette City, has the unique distinction of having had a marriage annulled and is still hampered by matrimonial ties which prevent another marriage, says the Uniontown Herald. In court in Fayette county an order has been handed down in favor of Paul Baran of Revere, annulling his marriage of May 1, 1909, and giving him a legal divorce from Rosie Baran. When this was done it left Mrs. Baran with but one husband. He is Herman Maurer to whom she was married on October 5, 1906, and has never secured a divorce. Baran brought suit for divorce on the grounds of cruel treatment, also offering evidence the recods of his wife's former marriage.

Mrs. Baran contends that she does not know that she was legally married to Herman Maurer. In court she recalled a ceremony before Justice M. D. Clifford in Fayette county, but considered that a preliminary performance which would be followed by a ceremony in a church. A few minutes after the ceremony before Justice M. D. Clifford her husband betook himself to parts unknown. She has not seen him since. Going to Fayette City she met Paul Baran and another marriage resulted.

BUSINESS MEN TO TAKE TRIP OVER WEST PENN

Valley Interested In Trolley Plans of Fayette

OFFICIALS VISITED HERE

Propose Sometime to Construct Connecting Track From Brownsville

A party of business men of the valley, who are interested in trolley improvement, will at the invitation of the West Penn Railways company make a tour of the lines of the company through Fayette and a part of Westmoreland county Friday. The party will be headed by members of the Civic League of Belle Vernon and business men of Belle Vernon, Monessen and other places are expected to take the trip.

Recently the officials of the West Penn company made a trip of inspection to the valley, where it is stated that they expect to eventually extend their lines, and the present visit of the business men to Fayette county is the outcome of an invitation extended then The railway officials want the valley men to see and learn for themelves how thoroughly efficient the trolley service is over the West Penn lines

The party will make the trip in a special car from Brownsville, with W. R. Kinney, superintendent of the lighting department, in charge. Other West Penn men will be J. L. Fritsch, chief engineer, F. E. Brashear, right of way agent, T. S. Henderson, head of the new business department, and D. S. Johnson of Charleroi, the local superintendent.

The West Penn company is desirous of extending its lines from Brownsville north some time in the near future, to connect with a Charleroi line. Engineers have been over the territory, but no route has been mapped out, it is stated.

Charged with violating the school laws by keeping daughter, Lucy Berwin, 13 years old, from school. Mrs. Berwin was this morning fined $2.00 and costs by Justice of the Peace E. E. Rice. The information was made by Truant Officer Gilbert Uptegraft. It is said to be the second offense of the kind.

NEWSPAPER MADE PLAY ON STUART

Philadelphia North American Has Continual Grouch

MAGEE MAKES STATEMENT

Mayor William Magee of Pittsburg, who is leading the political campaign in that city in the interests of the Republican partys at a rally Monday night said:

"The people of this city and State are called to make up their minds how they will vote at the November election on very important matters," "The most important of these is the election of the Republican candidate for Governor. John K. Tener has lived in and near Pittsburg all his life. In 45 or 46 years no person has been able to say that any act of his shows him not to be a fit and capable person to hold the office of chief executive of the State of Pennsylvania.

"Mr. Tener advocates the principles of the Republican party. He advocates acting in the next four year as in the past four years Gov. Stuart has acted. In all the States of the union no Governor has made 'good,' as has Edwin S. Stuart, the Governor of Pennsylvania. Gov. Stuart, has a splendid record as Governor, yet he, when a candidate, was attacked just as fiercely as Mr. Tener is attacked, and by the same people, the same newspaper, the same individual that attacked Tener. They attacked Stuart then, they attack Tener now No matter who the candidate might be, the same opposition to Tener made smilar attacks on previous Republican candidates for Governor. Why? Because, they wanted to down the Republican party in Pennsylvania."

Reception and Smoker

Business Men Will Welcome New Members To-Night

The Charleroi Business Men's association will tonight hold a reception in the nature of a smoker, at which time the new members received during the past year will be welcomed. A program will be rendered by members of the association and a supper will follow.

There are now between 70 and 80 members of the association. During the past year there were about 30 added and the name changed from the "Charleroi Merchants Association" to the "Charleroi Business Men's Association."

To the affair tonight the president and secretary of the Civil League of Belle Vernon and the president and secretary of the Monessen Board of Trade have been invited and are expected to attend.

A Campaign of Slander

Commenting on the slanderous reports circulated against Congressman J. K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, the Monongahela Times says:

"Many Pennsylvania newspapers are commending the attitude of John K. Tener in the campaign. He has met the people in a calm, dignified manner, has asked them to investigate his record as a public official and as a business man. He stated his views on the issues and has pledged himself to put them in force. The Republican candidate has declared for honest dealing for a progressive administration of State affairs, and for the enactment of measures that will be of benefit to all of the people.

"In contrast to Mr. Tener's campaign methods are those of the coalition of money hungry newspapers and office hungry candidates. The campaign of this discredited alliance is an insult to the people of Pennsylvania. It presents an instance of voice and brain behind which there is no conscience. Usually the charges are purposely made so vague that investigaton is impossible. Where there have been specific allegations the answer has been prompt, vigorous and effective.

"That a campaign of slander should win this year in Pennsylvania is unbelievable. Occasionally the people are deceived by such a campaign; that happened five years ago when William H. Berry was a candidate for State Treasurer. It failed a year later when Edwin S. Stuart was elected Governor after the most reckless dissemination of abuse by newspaper and from the stump. The indications are that this year the people again are preparing to rebuke the apostles of falsification. John K. Tener is as worthy of the office of Governor as any other man the Republican party has presented for the office. He possesses a high order of ability and integrity and he is secure in the confidence of the people. He will be elected because they know that he ought to be elected. It is inconceivable that any considerable number of sensible Republicans should be the victims of the sinster influences of his degraded assailants."

Rubbing It In

Washington, the county seat, is experiencing the effects of sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind. Having a valuable franchise that is monopolized by a water company the latter seeks to exact the last pound of flesh from its benefactor. In presenting a new contract the water company that received its benefaction from the hands of the borough proposes to charge the borough for every drop of water used for public purposes. The company wants pay for the water used in flushing the sewers, for sprinkling the streets, and to add insult to injury imposes a minimum rate for the borough to pay whether any water is used or not for the purposes that most water companies gladly donate to the municipalities for the profitable handout they got when the franchise was granted.

It is probable that the Citizens' Water company of Washington regards its francise as one of its most valuable assets, yet is cost the company nothing, required no legitimate investment, and was worthless until utilized and put into operation. This is the way with all such franchises, and yet an effort is made to besmirch the character of John K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, because some people with whom he was associated in a business way undertook to finance a proposition along the same lines. The people of Washington have some redress. The borough can impose a tax on the water pipes for police surveillance and inpection, and this should be done if the water company will not play fair.

As to Fushion

The efforts made to effect a fusion between the Democratic and Keystone parties do not seem to be meeting with success. The news dispatches state that a final effort will be made today to have both Grim and Berry withdraw for the purpose of substituting some Democrat on both tickets and consolidating the opposition vote against the Republican party. While both Grim and Berry personally oppose the proposition Grim says he will quit if the executive committee of his party says so, but Berry says nay. He believes he can be elected, just as he believed four years ago that Emery would have forty thousand majority for Governer over Stuart.

It is quite evident that the fusion move is made by the politicians connected with both parties who see the futility of dividing the apposition. Those who object are the ones dominated by sentiment. The politicians want to win, but the sentimental followers want to fight regardless of consequences. That is how the matter stands, and indications are that Berry will continue in the field.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The Pennsylvania railroad says it favors good roads so people can get to and from the station. Nothing like booming business.

More people take these sparks seriously than they do humorously.

More people were disappointed that Walter Wellman failed to finish his trip across the Atlantic than there were when Jim Jeffries got licked.

Willie—"I saw you coming out of a saloon this morning."

Carroll—"Well, I had to come out some time; I couldn't stay in there all day."

The Blame

His liver needed scrapin',
And his kidneys had the gout;
He swallowed lots of bitters,
'Till at last he cleaned them out,
His legs were swelled with dropsy,
'Till he had to cut his shoes;
He blamed it on the doctor—
But never blamed the booze.

Then he had the tremens,
And he talked rats and snakes.
First he had the fever
And then he had the shakes,
At last he had a funeral,
And the mourners had the blues,
And the epitaph carved on him was:
"He never blamed the booze."

There's no use arguning when the other fellow insists upon arguing with a gun.

It is about time for rumors of a frame up in the world's base ball series.

Logansport woman won on a bet a box of candy from her sweetheart by being hauled to the tob of a 185-foot smoke stack, and doing a dance on a small platform there. But that's the only way some girls have of wheedling a hunk of sweetness out of their suitors.

Really the pictures of some of these young classes who have supposedly wrought destruction on royal personages, have a cute appearance.

FLED FROM BOREDOM.

The Tale of a Purposely Interrupted Yachting Cruise.

A few seasons back a well known hostess chartered a splendid yacht for August and invited a large number of her friends for a three weeks' cruise. At first it went well, though the party was not specially well assorted, but after a few days they began to evince signs of being somewhat bored with each other's company.

The hostess marked these signs of incipient boredom, which became more plainly evident each day, and at last in despair she took counsel with one of her guests, an old and experienced yachtsman.

"What on earth shall I do to amuse these people?" she asked.

The yachtsman looked at the serene sky and calm, blue water and shook his head doubtfully.

"A storm would enliven them up a bit," he said, "but the weather looks quite settled. There is only one thing to be done. You must arrange a breakdown; the engineer will manage that all right for you. He has probably often done so before. Then you must make for the nearest port for repairs and let your guests have a run ashore. Some of them, I expect, will find an excuse for bidding you goodby and those who remain with you will get along all right together."

The hostess took her guest's advice and arrived at Toulon a day later, where nigh twenty of her guests bid her goodby.—London M. A. P.

THE PRINCE WINKED.

And Miss Alcott Was at the Other End of the Flirtation.

It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. The fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Mose's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king, then Prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country.

"I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and I saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow haired laddie, very like his mother. Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us, for Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the saucy wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes."

By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the Prince of Wales was nineteen years old and consequently quite a broth of a boy, and when Miss Alcott—we blush to record it—was twenty-eight.—New York Mail.

African Grosbecks.

The social grosbecks of South Africa live in large societies. They select a tree of considerable size and literally cover it with a grass roof, under which their common dwelling is constructed. The roof serves the double purpose of keeping off the heat and the rain, and 400 or 500 pairs of birds are known to have the same shelter. The nests in this aerial dwelling are built in regular streets and closely resemble rows of tenement houses.

For campaign thunder Gibboney, who is the "big boss" of the Keystone outfit, and calmly commands Berry and the rest into respectful obedience, uses woeful tales of alleged terrible conditions existing in Philadelphia, and knocks the stenographer sent out by the Republican State Campaign committee to cover Berry and Gibboney's talks. The conditions in Philadelphia he says are due to the instrumentality of one Penrose who, to hear Gibboney tell it, is the biggest villian this side of Hades. He also accuses Penrose of sending out the stenographer, which of course is a terribly naughty thing to do.

Gibboney in his talks always tells about what he has accomplished in the city of Brotherly Love toward the undoing of immoral trade conducted by Penrose's lieuterants, but according to his own admission the affairs there seem to be about as bad as before he entered upon his self assumed duties of moral purification

The luckless Ragsdale, the stenographer, is treated sarcastically and with utter contempt by Gibboney in his talks, although it seems the latter should feel complimented that the Republican party considers it worth while paying a man full day wages and traveling expenses to listen to his vituperative abuse. Ragsdale is a good fellow to meet, and one who evidentally knows his business. By his own admission he is a friend of Gibboney's, although why he should feel called upon to make such an explanation in the face of the candidate's scathing denunciation of him and his business is a question He is furnished routings by the Keystone campaign committee, but it keeps him thoroughly on the job at all times to stay with the party because of reckless breaking of dates and substitutions. Ragsdale nearly always manages to get a front seat at the Gibboney-Berry meetings, and then calmly and smilingly takes notes while he is being denounced from the word go.

Of the candidates Berry and Gibboney, the former is probably the most refined. He spends the time telling about himself and doesn't lower himself by the use of maledictive expletives and language, but in office would undoubtedly allow himself to be guided and influenced by his more agressive associate and the Commonwealth would suffer.

Has Leg Broken By Rolling Log

North Charleroi Man Disabled Yesterday While at Work

While cuting posts between the second and third street car bridges, near North Charleroi yesterday afternoon, Robert Valentine a well known colored man, was disabled by having a log roll over him. The large bone of the lower left leg was broken in two places. The man was removed to the home of John Stewart in North Charleroi and Dr. N. W. Patton called.

WILL GIVE COMPLETE STATEMENT

Congressman Tener Promises to Meet All Charges

BIG MEETINGS ARE HELD

Congressman J. K. Tener and his party visited McKean, Cameron and Potter counties yesterday, and were met with most enthusiastic receptions. Every indication points to those counties giving the usual Republican majorities. At Coudersport Mr. Tener again replied to the slanderous charges made against his character by the Philadelphia North American, and emphatically declared that he would meet all charges. He said:

"Certain accusations have been made against me recently in one or more of the daily newspapers, and while I do not propose at this time to enter into any explanation or make any finished statement of the matter I do want to say that my connection with that company was only to the extent of receiving two months' salary and that should measure the time of my official connection with it.

"I also want to say and I want you to believe me, because it is the truth, that I never received one dollar's worth of stock or one share of stock in that company. I further ask you to suspend judgement on that proposition until a full statement is made, which will be forthcoming within the next day or two and that statement will be the plain and unvarnished truth."

CASE SCHEDULED FOR HEARING THIS MONTH

Indiana County Sensation, in Which Former North Charleroi Girl Is Concerned, Attracting Attention

The trial of Bamford E. Burkhart at Indiana in the Indiana county courts, charged with illegal actions terminating in conditions that caused the death of Bertha Critzer formerly of North Charleroi, will come up this months it is understood Yesterday a detective from Indiana was at North Charleroi and it is stated he summoned witnesses in the case from that place.

The death of the girl caused quite a sensation. She died on Saturday, July 30, from blood poisoning, which physicians claim had resulted from attempts to offset the effects of a serious crime. The Critzer girl was formerly employed as a domestic at the home of Mr and Mrs B F Sayre in North Charleroi and was well known in this place.

GIRL ABSENT FOR MONTH RETURNED TO HER HOME

Located By Monessen Constable After She Had Been Here, It Is Claimed, for Some Time

After being gone for a month without her father having heard a word from her, Catherine Kergo has been found and returned to her parents in Mt. Pleasant. The girl was found by Constable C A. Kepple of Monessen, after some shadowing work in Charleroi, where the girl had lived, it is said, for a while. She was identified by means of a photograph and a description forwarded to the Mt Pleasant police.

The Kergo girl is about 18 years old, and according to the father incorrigible. The mother is in the old country, and while he was at work he claims that the daughter fell into dissolute habits and he was unable to control her.

After she disappeared about a month ago, he learned through a son-in-law of Connellsville that she was in the neighborhood of Monessen, it is said, and a warrant was sent to Constable Kreple, together with a picture and description of the girl. The officer then ascertained that she was supposed to be living in Charleroi with a man by the name of Albert Kray. Kreppie sent word to Connellsville and the son-in law came from that place and together they came to Charleroi. After a somewhat extended search, it is said, Constable Kepple succeeded in locating the girl and arrested both her and the man. They were taken to Monessen but the man was released. The girl declared she would not go back to live with her father, but was finally persuaded to accompay her brother-in-law and was taken to Mt. Pleasant.

It is claimed that the girl had spent some time in the valley, and had been in trouble with the Brownsville and the Uniontown police.

State Treasurer Wright Will Hold Job Full Term

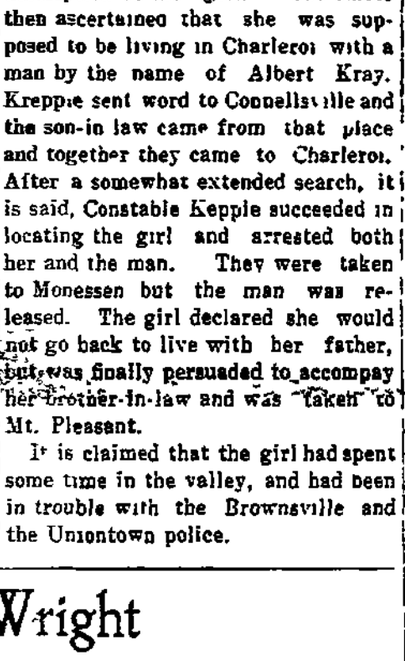
Governor Stuart's Appointee Will Continue in Office Until 1913

CHANGE IN THE BALLOT

Charles F. Wright, State Treasuer, appointed by Governor Edwin S Stuart in April to fill the veaney caused by the death of Treasurer J. A Stober, will hold his office until May 1913, according to a ruling of the Supreme Court yesterday. All political parties had nominated candidates for the position this year under the supposition that Wright's term would expire next year.

George E. Etter filed a writ of quo warranto in Dauphin County to prevent the placing of candidates names on the ballots and a demurrer was filed to the petition by Attorney General M. Hampton Todd The Superior Court sustained the demurrer and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court rule that as the date for the election of State Treasurer comes next in 1912 there is no warrant for holding an election for the office before that.

Because of this decision no State



C. F. WRIGHT.

State Treasurer Whose Term Is Continued

Treasurer will be elected this fall although the candidates nominated by the various parties have been busy campaigning Charles F. Wright who was the Republican candidate has been with the Tener party since it started out. This action of the court takes him off the ticket, but that will not affect the campaign.

Divorced; Still Tied

Fayette City Woman Loses One Husband But Has Another

Mrs. Rosie Baran, of Fayette City, has the unique distinction of having had a marriage annulled and is still hampered by matrimonial ties which prevent another marriage, says the Uniontown Herald. In court in Fayette county an order has been handed down in favor of Paul Baran of Revere, annulling his marriage of May 1, 1909, and giving him a legal divorce from Rosie Baran. When this was done it left Mrs. Baran with but one husband. He is Herman Maurer to whom she was married on October 5, 1906, and has never secured a divorce. Baran brought suit for divorce on the grounds of cruel treatment, also offering evidence the records of his wife's former marriage.

Mrs. Baran contends that she does not know that she was legally married to Herman Maurer. In court she recalled a ceremony before Justice M. D. Clifford in Fayette county but considered that a preliminary performance which would be followed by a ceremony in a church. A few minutes after the ceremony before Justice M. D. Clifford her husband betook himself to parts unknown. She has not seen him since. Going to Fayette City she met Paul Baran and another marriage resulted.

BUSINESS MEN TO TAKE TRIP OVER WEST PENN

Valley Interested In Trolley Plans of Fayette

OFFICIALS VISITED HERE

Propose Sometime to Construct Connecting Trac[k] From Brownsville

A party of business men of the valley, who are interested in trolley improvement, will at the invitation of the West Penn Railways company make a tour of the lines of the company through Fayette and a part of Westmoreland county Friday. The party will be headed by members of the Civic League of Belle Vernon and business men of Belle Vernon, Monessen and other places are expected to take the trip.

Recently the officials of the West Penn company made a trip of inspection to the valley, where it is stated that they expect to eventually extend their lines, and the present visit of the business men to Fayette county is the outcome of an invitation extended then The railway officials want the valley men to see and learn for themelves how thoroughly efficient the trolley service is over the West Penn lines

The party will make the trip in a special car from Brownsville, with W. R. Kinney, superintendent of the lighting department, in charge. Other West Penn men will be J. L. Fritsch, chief engineer, F. E. Brashear, right of way agent, T. S. Henderson, head of the new business department, and D. S. Johnson of Charleroi, the local superintendent.

The West Penn company is desirous of extending its lines from Brownsville north some time in the near future, to connect with a Charleroi line. Engineers have been over the territory, but no route has been mapped out, it is stated.

NEWSPAPER MADE PLAY ON STUART

Philadelphia North American Has Continual Grouch

MAGEE MAKES STATEMENT

Mayor William Magee of Pittsburg, who is leading the political campaign in that city in the interests of the Republican partys at a rally Monday night said:

"The people of this city and State are called to make up their minds how they will vote at the November election on very important matters," "The most important of these is the election of the Republican candidate for Governor. John K. Tener has lived in and near Pittsburg all his life. In 45 or 46 years no person has been able to say that any act of his shows him not to be a fit and capable person to hold the office of chief executive of the State of Pennsylvania.

"Mr Tener advocates the principles of the Republican party. He advocates acting in the next four year as in the past four years Gov. Stuart has acted. In all the States of the union no Governor has made 'good,' as has Edwin S Stuart, the Governor of Pennsylvania. Gov. Stuart, has a splendid record as Governor, yet he, when a candidate, was attacked just as fiercely as Mr. Tener is attacked, and by the same people, the same newspaper, the same individual that attacked Tener. They attacked Stuart then, they attack Tener now No matter who the candidate might be, the same opposition to Tener made similar attacks on previous Republican candidates for Governor. Why? Because, they wanted to down the Republican party in Pennsylvania."

Reception and Smoker

Business Men Will Welcome New Members To-Night

The Charleroi Business Men's association will tonight hold a reception in the nature of a smoker, at which time the new members received during the past year will be welcomed. A program will be rendered by members of the association and a supper will follow.

There are now between 70 and 80 members of the association. During the past year there were about 30 added and the name changed from the "Charleroi Merchants Association" to the "Charleroi Business Men's Association."

To the affair tonight the president and secretary of the Civil League of Belle Vernon and the president and secretary of the Monessen Board of Trade have been invited and are expected to attend.

A Campaign of Slander

Commenting on the slanderous reports circulated against Congressman J. K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, the Monongahela Times says:

"Many Pennsylvania newspapers are commending the attitude of John K. Tener in the campaign. He has met the people in a calm, dignified manner, has asked them to investigate his record as a public official and as a business man. He stated his views on the issues and has pledged himself to put them in force. The Republican candidate has declared for honest dealing for a progressive administration of State affairs, and for the enactment of measures that will be of benefit to all of the people.

"In contrast to Mr. Tener's campaign methods are those of the coalition of money hungry newspapers and office hungry candidates. The campaign of this discredited alliance is an insult to the people of Pennsylvania. It presents an instance of voice and brain behind which there is no conscience. Usually the charges are purposely made so vague that investigaton is impossible. Where there have been specific allegations the answer has been prompt, vigorous and effective.

"That a campaign of slander should win this year in Pennsylvania is unbelievable. Occasionally the people are deceived by such a campaign; that happened five years ago when William H. Berry was a candidate for State Treasurer. It failed a year later when Edwin S. Stuart was elected Governor after the most reckless dissemination of abuse by newspaper and from the stump. The indications are that this year the people again are preparing to rebuke the apostles of falsification. John K. Tener is as worthy of the office of Governor as any other man the Republican party has presented for the office. He possesses a high order of ability and integrity and he is secure in the confidence of the people. He will be elected because they know that he ought to be elected. It is inconceivable that any considerable number of [illegible] republicans should be the victims of the sinster influences of his degraded assailants."

Rubbing It In

Washington, the county seat, is experiencing the effects of sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind. Having a valuable franchise that is monopolized by a water company the latter seeks to exact the last pound of flesh from its benefactor. In presenting a new contract the water company that received its benefaction from the hands of the borough proposes to charge the borough for every drop of water used for public purposes. The company wants pay for the water used in flushing the sewers, for sprinkling the streets, and to add insult to injury imposes a minimum rate for the borough to pay whether any water is used or not for the purposes that most water companies gladly donate to the municipalities for the profitable handout they got when the franchise was granted.

It is probable that the Citizens' Water company of Washington regards its francise as one of its most valuable assets, yet is cost the company nothing, required no legitimate investment, and was worthless until utilized and put into operation. This is the way with all such franchises, and yet an effort is made to besmirch the character of John K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, because some people with whom he was associated in a business way undertook to finance a proposition along the same lines. The people of Washington have some redress. The borough can impose a tax on the water pipes for police surveillance and inpection, and this should be done if the water company will not play fair.

As to Fushion

The efforts made to effect a fusion between the Democratic and Keystone parties do not seem to be meeting with success. The news dispatches state that a final effort will be made today to have both Grim and Berry withdraw for the purpose of substituting some Democrat on both tickets and consolidating the opposition vote against the Republican party. While both Grim and Berry personally oppose the proposition Grim says he will quit if the executive committee of his party says [so, but Berry says nay. He believes he can be elected, just as he believed four years ago that Emery would have forty thousand majority for Governer over Stuart.

It is quite evident that the fusion move is made by the politicians connected with both parties who see the futility of dividing the apposition. Those who object are the ones dominated by sentiment. The politicians want to win, but the sentimental followers want to fight regardless of consequences. That is how the matter stands, and indications are that Berry will continue in the field.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The Pennsylvania railroad says it favors good roads so people can get to and from the station. Nothing like booming business.

More people take these sparks seriously than they do humorously.

More people were disappointed that Walter Wellman failed to finish his trip across the Atlantic than there were when Jim Jeffries got licked.

Willie—"I saw you coming out of a saloon this morning."

Carroll—"Well, I had to come out some time; I couldn't stay in there all day."

The Blame

His liver needed scrapin',
And his kidneys had the gout;
He swallowed lots of bitters,
'Till at last he cleaned them out,
His legs were swelled with dropsy,
'Till he had to cut his shoes;
He blamed it on the doctor—
But never blamed the booze.

Then he had the tremens,
And he talked rats and snakes,
First he had the fever
And then he had the shakes,
At last he had a funeral,
And the mourners had the blues,
And the epitaph carved on him was:
"He never blamed the booze."

There's no use arguing when the other fellow insists upon arguing with a gun.

It is about time for rumors of a frame up in the world's base ball series.

Logansport woman won on a bet a box of candy from her sweetheart by being hauled to the tob of a 185-foot smoke stack, and doing a dance on a small platform there. But that's the only way some girls have of wheedling a hunk of sweetness out of their suitors.

Really the pictures of some of these young classes who have supposedly wrought destruction on royal personages, have a cute appearance.

FLED FROM BOREDOM.

The Tale of a Purposely Interrupted Yachting Cruise.

A few seasons back a well known hostess chartered a splendid yacht for August and invited a large number of her friends for a three weeks' cruise. At first all went well, though the party was not specially well assorted, but after a few days they began to evince signs of being somewhat bored with each other's company.

The hostess marked these signs of incipient boredom, which became more plainly evident each day, and at last in despair she took counsel with one of her guests, an old and experienced yachtsman.

"What on earth shall I do to amuse these people?" she asked.

The yachtsman looked at the serene sky and calm, blue water and shook his head doubtfully.

"A storm would enliven them up a bit," he said, "but the weather looks quite settled. There is only one thing to be done. You must arrange a breakdown; the engineer will manage that all right for you. He has probably often done so before. Then you must make for the nearest port for repairs and let your guests have a run ashore. Some of them, I expect, will find an excuse for bidding you goodby and those who remain with you will get along all right together."

The hostess took her guest's advice and arrived at Toulon a day later, where nigh twenty of her guests bid her goodby.—London M. A. P.

THE PRINCE WINKED.

And Miss Alcott Was at the Other End of the Flirtation.

It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. The fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Mose's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king, then Prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country.

"I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and I saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow haired laddie, very like his mother. Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us, for Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the saucy wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes."

By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the Prince of Wales was nineteen years old and consequently quite a broth of a boy, and when Miss Alcott—we blush to record it—was twenty-eight.—New York Mail.

African Grosbecks.

The social grosbecks of South Africa live in large societies. They select a tree of considerable size and literally cover it with a grass roof, under which their common dwelling is constructed. The roof serves the double purpose of keeping off the heat and the rain, and 400 or 500 pairs of birds are known to have the same shelter. The nests in this aerial dwelling are built in regular streets and closely resemble rows of tenement houses.
